Somebody's Coming to See Me Tonight

Music by Stephen Foster

All Fours

Music by Béla Bartók

Candleflowerdance

Music by Igor Stravinsky

V

Music by Robert Schumann

As part of the Mark Morris Dance Group's 25th Anniversary celebrations, the master of American contemporary dance brings four pieces specially chosen for Snape Maltings Concert Hall.

With live music - instrumentalists and singers - this rich and thrilling feast for the senses is pure theatrical magic. The first part of the programme features the tender and poignant Somebody's Coming to See Me Tonight reflecting the Americana of Stephen Foster's music, followed by All Fours, which is sombrely austere and touchingly graceful. In the second half, Morris presents his newest work Candleflowerdance to music by Igor Stravinsky and the astounding masterpiece V, awesomely displaying the artistry and versatility of the dancers.
