67th OJAI MUSIC FESTIVAL

THOMAS W. MORRIS ARTISTIC DIRECTOR | MARK MORRIS MUSIC DIRECTOR

"The annual Ojai Music Festival, whose 67th season ran June 6 to 9, does many things well. But what it does best is reinvent itself, which it accomplishes by recalling its past while broadening its horizons."

CONCERTS

"Morris also displayed such a moving, loving, insightful sense of music that new worlds of wonder opened before a listener's eyes—yes, eyes, because there was dance as well as music."

—Los Angeles Times

Mark Morris Dance Group performs Grand Duo.

"Every year at this time, one of the world's best music festivals is reborn, and this phoenix rises right in our backyard. With acclaimed choreographer Mark Morris at the helm, the 67th edition of the venerable Ojai Music Festival could hardly have been more fresh or up to date."

—Santa Barbara Independent

"I can now cross a few items off my bucket list, thanks to Morris. I heard my first live performance of Terry Riley's In C, the seminal work of minimalism. I also heard my first live performance of John Cage's infamous silent piece, 4'33", and it was more unusual than most, 'played' on a toy piano in a playground, and with clapping between movements."

—Orange County Register

The Bad Plus perform Stravinsky's The Rite of Spring (arr. The Bad Plus).

"But however untraditional a 'Rite' for piano, bass and percussion may be, Ojai has a long tradition for being its own Stravinskian rite of spring. The composer's close association with the festival in the 50s made the town musically famous..."

—Los Angeles Times

OJAI EXTRA

Yegor Shevtsov performs works by John Cage in Libbey Park.

"Mr. Cage's classic silent piece 4'33" made its meditative presence known in the middle of a lovely little concert on toy piano in the Libbey Park playground..."

—Santa Barbara News-Press

COMMUNITY EVENTS

MMDG dancers teach participants at a free class.

"The spirit of Ojai itself reminds you of Harrison. Longtime festival-goers greet each other like old friends. Performers and listeners mingle in cafes, and birdcalls and children's laughter echo through the park."

—San Francisco Classical Voice

SOCIAL GATHERINGS

Mark Morris festively leads social dancing at the Opening Night Party.

"In an Ojai Music Festival that revels in revelations, choosing the multi-talented choreographer Mark Morris as this year's music director brought multiple bonuses to the alert sensibilities of the traditional festival audience."

—Ventura County Star

WHAT PATRONS ARE SAYING:

“It was a bold achievement for West Coast Music and an intelligent experiment in syncretic dance.”

—Dennis D.

“...the introduction to unfamiliar composers and their music was the most valuable experience, along with informal discussions with so many enthusiastic attendees! You live in a special place, and do a good job of inviting outsiders to participate!”

—Margaret & Jerry G.
