THE ROYAL OPERA COVENT GARDEN

The Royal Opera Covent Garden makes its first appearance at the Edinburgh Festival since 1961 with two very different works. This world-renowned company brings its full orchestra and chorus, plus wonderful casts, presenting a new production of Rameau's Platée along with the original 1847 version of Verdi's Macbeth.

MARK MORRIS DANCE GROUP

Rameau's Platée is one of the most spectacular and sumptuous scores of 18th century opera. The witty and fast moving plot concerns a vain, silly and comical wood nymph, Platée, who is made the dupe of the Gods in settling a quarrel. A star cast includes French tenor Jean-Paul Fouchécourt as Platée, and Diana Montague and François le Roux as Junon and Jupiter.

The production is directed and choreographed by Mark Morris, with set designs by Adrienne Lobel, costume designs by fashion designer Isaac Mizrahi and lighting by James F Ingalls.

ROYAL SCOTTISH NATIONAL ORCHESTRA

Emil de Cou Conductor

Elizabeth Loscavia and Yuri Possokhov in SONATA

San Francisco Ballet's opening programme presents the full company in two dazzling works by Balanchine, along with Artistic Director Helgi Tomasson's lyrical and beautiful Sonata, set to Rachmaninov's Sonata for Cello and Piano.

Stravinsky Violin Concerto is one of Balanchine's most technically demanding works. First performed by New York City Ballet in 1972, it features startlingly original pas de deux in a richly textured work set to Stravinsky's Violin Concerto in D. His ballet set to Bizet's only symphony, Symphony in C, was created in 1948 in the classical Russian tradition. Spectacular and exhilarating, Symphony in C culminates in an awe inspiring finale for 48 dancers unmatched anywhere in ballet for pure excitement.
